APPENDIX 1

ADDITIONAL INVESTMENT CONSIDERATIONS, DISCLAIMERS AND ADDITIONAL DEFINITIONS

(a) Additional investment considerations and disclaimers

INVESTORS ARE ADVISED TO CAREFULLY CONSIDER ADDITIONAL INVESTMENT CONSIDERATIONS AND RISKS ASSOCIATED WITH THE SECURITIES, INCLUDING BUT NOT LIMITED TO THE FOLLOWING. THESE CONSIDERATIONS ARE IN ADDITION TO THE RISKS AND CONSIDERATIONS DESCRIBED IN THE BASE PROGRAMME DOCUMENT TO WHICH INVESTORS SHOULD REFER. INVESTORS ARE URGED TO CONSULT WITH THEIR LEGAL, REGULATORY, INVESTMENT, ACCOUNTING, TAX AND OTHER ADVISORS WITH REGARD TO ANY PROPOSED OR ACTUAL INVESTMENT IN THESE SECURITIES. PLEASE SEE THESE FINAL TERMS AND THE BASE PROGRAMME DOCUMENT FOR A FULL DETAILED DESCRIPTION OF THE SECURITIES AND IN PARTICULAR, PLEASE REVIEW THE RISK FACTORS ASSOCIATED WITH THESE SECURITIES.

- Capital at risk

Investors' investment amount is at risk. Investors may receive an amount substantially less than the capital invested or, in extreme circumstances, zero. Investors should not purchase the Securities unless they accept the risk of losing all of their initial investment.

- Adjustment events

The Issuer may make such adjustment to the Securities as it may, in its sole and absolute discretion, determine to be appropriate, under a variety of conditions and/or circumstances set forth in the Asset Terms and Conditions for Equity Index-linked Securities and these Final Terms, such as, upon the occurrence of: (i) the calculation of the Index by a Successor Sponsor or replacement of the Index by the Successor Index, (ii) an Index Adjustment Event or an Additional Disruption Event; or (iii) a Jurisdictional Event or a subsequent correction of a published Index Level in respect of the Index. The Issuer has the sole and absolute discretion to make adjustment and determination as it considers appropriate and any such discretion exercised by the Issuer shall be binding on the investors. The Issuer will not take into account individual circumstances in exercising discretion.

- Early redemption by Issuer at amount less than the amount initially invested

The Issuer may early redeem the Securities prior to the Maturity Date upon notice to investors under a variety of conditions and/or circumstances set forth in the Asset Terms and Conditions for Equity Index-linked Securities and these Final Terms, such as (i) illegality in respect of its performance of its obligations under the Securities or any relevant hedging arrangements or upon the occurrence of a Tax Event or a Regulatory Event or (ii) upon the occurrence of an Index Adjustment Event or Additional Disruption Event (e.g. a Change in Law or a Hedging Disruption). If the Issuer elects to early redeem the Securities, each Security will be redeemed at the Early Payment Amount.

In addition, investors may, by notice in writing given to the Fiscal Agent at its specified office, declare the Securities immediately due and payable in case of an Event of Default under conditions and/or circumstances set forth in the Base Programme Document. Please refer to General Condition 8 of the Base Programme Document for more details.

Furthermore, the Securities will be early redeemed upon the occurrence of a Knock-out Event on any Knock-out Observation Date (k), resulting in the payment of a Knock-out Redemption Amount per Security on the Knock-out Redemption Date (k) corresponding to the relevant Knock-out Observation Date (k) on which a Knock-out Event has first occurred.

If the Securities are early redeemed under the abovementioned circumstances, such redemption may be at a price which is substantially lower than the amount initially invested.

- Risks of investing in equity index

The Securities are linked to an equity index. If the level of the equity index moves against investors, investors will suffer losses. The performance of equity indices is unpredictable. It depends on financial, political, economic and other events as well as the earnings of issuer of shares underlying the relevant equity index, market position, risk situation, shareholder structure and distribution policy.

- Risks related to the Securities linked to Shares listed on PRC stock exchanges

Investors may obtain exposure to Shares listed on PRC stock exchanges through the Qualified Foreign Institutional Investor ("QFII") regime and/or the Renminbi Qualified Foreign Institutional Investor ("RQFII") regime.

Where this is the case, it should be noted that on 29 September 2009 and 11 March 2013, respectively, the State Administration for Foreign Exchange ("SAFE") issued the Provisions on the Foreign Exchange Administration of Domestic Securities Investment by Qualified Foreign Institutional Investors and the Notice on Issues concerning Domestic Securities Investment Pilot by Renminbi Qualified Foreign Institutional Investors, which expressly prohibit QFIIs and RQFIIs, respectively, from transferring or selling their investment quota. There are regulatory uncertainties as to whether issuing or providing hedging arrangements for market access products is regarded as being in compliance with the relevant rules. In addition, the China Securities Regulatory Commission and SAFE may implement further measures from time to time.

Alternatively, an investor (whether the Issuer, an affiliate thereof or a third party counterparty who has entered into a hedging arrangement to hedge the Issuer's obligations in respect of the Securities through the China Connect Service) may obtain exposure to Shares listed on PRC stock exchanges through the China Connect Service. The China Connect Service is a securities trading and clearing programme which is being developed and which currently envisages the Hong Kong Stock Exchange providing order-routing and related services for certain securities traded on the Shanghai Stock Exchange or the Shenzhen Stock Exchange, and China Securities Depository and Clearing Corporation Limited and Hong Kong Securities Clearing Company Limited providing clearing, settlement, depository and related services in relation to such securities. Unlike an investment through the QFII or RQFII regime, an investor need not be approved as a QFII or RQFII and is not subject to an individual investment quota. Nonetheless, trading through the China Connect Service is subject to a number of restrictions including pre-trade checking requirements and daily quotas that apply to Northbound trading through the China Connect Service. The China Connect Service may also be disrupted or terminated. In addition, the China Connect Service may also subject to further developments.

There are also further regulatory uncertainties that apply in each case, including the taxes to which trades are subject. Each of the above factors may affect Securities linked to one or more Shares listed on PRC stock exchanges.

- Risks related to ChiNext Shares

Any exposure to securities listed on the ChiNext Board of the Shenzhen Stock Exchange ("ChiNext Shares") involves a high investment risk. In particular, profitability and other financial requirements for listing of shares on the ChiNext Board are less stringent than the Main Board and the SME Board of the Shenzhen Stock Exchange. A decision to invest in Securities linked to ChiNext Shares should be made only after due and careful consideration.

Companies listed on the ChiNext Board may include enterprises in the innovation and technology sector, as well as other start-up and/or growth enterprises with a smaller operating scale and share capital. Stock prices may also be more susceptible to manipulation due to fewer circulating shares. Accordingly, the ChiNext Shares may be very volatile and illiquid. In addition, current information on such companies may be limited and may not be widely available.

It may be more common and easier for companies listed on the ChiNext Board to be delisted. The ChiNext Shares may become very illiquid after delisting.

In light of the above, investment in Securities linked to ChiNext Shares may involve significant risk of loss.

- Risks of Investing in the PRC Securities Market and Relevant Derivative Instruments

The PRC capital market is still at a premature stage. Regulation of the PRC capital market is heavily influenced by government policies and is less transparent and less efficient than the regulation of developed capital markets. There still remain allegations of and convictions for malpractices such as market manipulation and insider trading. The stock price of a PRC Share Issuer may not therefore reasonably reflect its intrinsic value. In addition, the disclosure of information by a PRC Share Issuer with respect to its financial status may not always be complete and reliable. If the stock price of a PRC Share Issuer does not reasonably reflect its intrinsic value, such pricing inaccuracy will be passed through to derivative instruments such as the Securities.

Investors should refer to the Base Programme Document (in particular, the Asset Terms and Conditions for Equity Index-linked Securities) and these Final Terms of the Securities for more details.
